Call to Order
Dwight Widaman called the meeting to order at 12:07 p.m. Central Time via Zoom.

Dwight introduced the board and thanked them for being there.

Warren Maye opened the meeting in prayer.

Dwight gave an overview of the membership and the breadth of work that its members does.

Mark Dreistadt gave a presentation educating members about the process that the board went through to arrive at the decision to propose changing the name of the Evangelical Press Association to the Christian Communicators Network. He explained the reasons for the proposed name change. He reiterated that nothing about our statement of faith or mission will change but rather it's a name change to move into the next generation of ministry.

He showed the proposed resolution and explained what a yes or no vote means:

> RESOLVED, that the membership of the Evangelical Press Association approves amending the Articles of Incorporation to change the legal and public name of the organization to Christian Communicators Network.

Dwight opened the floor to questions and comments. Questions were asked, and the board answered them, and comments were made in the chat both in favor and against the name change.

Dwight read instructions about how voting will occur.
Warren Maye closed in prayer.

Adjournment
